GOOD MANAGEMENT IN MINING.

THE most appealing feature of the appreciation in the worth of silver is not the advance in the price of stocks nor the increase in the value of the weekly tonnage, although both of them are greatly to be desired. It is in the assurance of longevity for the camp. With silver at 47 cents it was necessary to mine only the highest grade of ores, for a mine that exhausts itself without profit is not conducted along the lines of good business; in fact, it is no business at all.

Should silver have continued for long under the half dollar mark it is the belief of The Bonanza that a number of the companies in the district would have pulled their pumps. It was the gold content that tided over that perilous period.

Those who study the production table published on page four of The Bonanza every Saturday afternoon cannot fail to note that both the tonnage and gross value are today practically what they were a year ago, and even two years ago, when the big slump was on. This is due to the very creditable plan of conservation. It is now possible to build up reserves of high grade ore and mine that which was unprofitable before, but which now adds to the dividend fund. If silver maintains a price above 75 cents, which it undoubtedly will do, the mines of Tonopah are good for profitable production for many years.

THE WASTE OF BUREAUCRACY.

AN UNFAILING weakness of military bureaucracy is the misuse of the commissioned personnel put at its disposal. We have an example today in a dispatch from Camp Mills, the headquarters of the Rainbow division of the national guard. A number of officers have been detailed by Major General Mann, commanding, to make up the list of names of the next of kin of all the men of that division and to organize the system of reporting the killed, wounded and missing after the division arrives in France. Doubtless this is done by order of the department, and, therefore, other commissioned officers to the number of hundreds have been or will be assigned to this work.

The Red Cross of every country in Europe is in charge of casualty reports. The American branch offered its services for this work to the war department. The offer was refused, and officers whom it is costing the government thousands of dollars to train are today doing clerical work which is done by clerks of the Red Cross in other countries. Our bureaucracy takes the position that because the casualties are military no non-military hand must touch their compilation or report. Whereupon this bureau is set up and manned with officers doing the work of clerks.

FRIENDSHIP WITH MEXICO DESIRABLE.

IT IS evident that an era of better feeling on the part of Mexico toward the United States is being developed. The wires tell us that yesterday there was an "invasion" from Juarez to El Paso by a band of eighty military musicians and patriotic airs were rendered all day and evening for the benefit of the American Red Cross drive.

People who have lived long in Mexico say that the gringo is not ill treated there after he has established his friendly intent and proven it beyond a reasonable doubt. The Americans have not always treated their southern neighbors with respect or even with lawful rights extended. We are prone to speak harshly and contemptuously of what we term the "greaser," but, when you get under his skin you nearly always find a white man; at least, that is what the old-timers in Mexico, who are non-prejudiced, say. It is pleasing that in the face of the world war the United States is establishing friendly relations with its southern neighbor, and friendly and reciprocal relations may be made permanent if the assurances of co-operation are carried out and the people of Mexico obtain assurance that Uncle Sam will act the avuncular part in good faith and will forgive the many ill natured pranks of his temperamental nephew.

WHEREIN FREE DISCUSSION HELPS.

IN AN address to magazine editors and writers in New York the other day Lord Northcliffe reiterated his warnings against the follies of excessive censorship, and advised this nation not to repeat the blunders that were made by the British government at the outset for the war, from which Great Britain is only now beginning to recover.

If there had been more freedom of newspaper discussion in the earlier stages of the war fewer reputations would now be blackened by reports of official commissions of inquiry placing a blame for events that occurred a year or more ago.

Criticism quickly applied, such as that which free newspapers and magazines furnish, will do more to correct abuses before they have grown into irretrievable national disasters than can any amount of findings delivered by belated official commissions of inquiry.—Chicago News.

CULTIVATE TASTE FOR WINE.

CHURCH people and prohibitionists generally need not read this little story, for it might offend. The Bonanza is directing it to the old toppers, the fellows with distended blood vessels on nose and cheeks, with the combination of a good pair of bellows and a bad morning cough, with an excess of exhilaration at times and a mean grouch at others. The whisky and gin drinker, who has not intention or power to reform, should school himself in one thing, and that is to substitute vinous for distilled potatoes. The country is getting mighty short of the stuff that runs away up in alcohol, but it is hardly likely that wine making and selling will be prohibited in the near future. There are too many good deacons in California and elsewhere engaged in the vineyard industry to permit the gates to be closed entirely to the man with the thirst. Besides, wine that is well ripened is, according to St. Paul and others, good for the stomach.

MONTANA WOOL CLIP.

(By Associated Press.)
HELENA, Mont., Oct. 22.—Montana's 1917 wool clip is estimated at 14,000,000 pounds, 5,000,000 pounds less than last year, by E. A. Gray, general agent in Montana for the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, with headquarters here.

"The falling off is due in large part to the severe winter of 1916-17," he said, "with the lamb crop last spring cut in half."

MEXICANS ASSIST RED CROSS RALLY

(By Associated Press.)

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 22.—Mexican participation, both official and unofficial, in the Festival of the Allies held here recently under the auspices of the local chapter of the Red Cross, came as a surprise and was one of the most gratifying features of the occasion.

Crowds attended daily and the proceeds netted the Red Cross more than $6,000. Because of Mexico's position of neutrality, no requests were made for booths or other exhibits from the southern republic, but General Francisco Murguía ordered his military band of eighty pieces to play nightly at the festival. Hundreds of the most prominent residents of Juarez attended, while young Mexican girls and boys gave typical native dances in the "street of nations" for the benefit of the fund. Juarez also subscribed liberally to the Red Cross fund.

FOOTBALL CONTESTS HELD IN THE MIDDLE WEST

(By Associated Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—Saturday's gridiron contests in the Missouri Valley conference upset several predictions and strengthened others. Nebraska's victory over the fast Notre Dame eleven in a 7 to 0 tally gave further evidence of the strength of the Cornhuskers. Missouri's 15 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Ames Cyclones brought deepening clouds about the championship hopes of the Missouri school, and the Kansas Aggies' 61 to 0 walk away from the Washington university eleven brought that school on a par with the Nebraskaans.
